

COMBINED DEGREES

BA IN HISTORY / JURIS DOCTOR IN LAW

The length of this program is six years on average, consisting of three years in the bachelor's program and three years at Pace University's Elisabeth Haub School of Law. Speak to an academic advisor for more information.

BA IN HISTORY

The History department at Pace University will expand and challenge your mind, while teaching you skills applicable to a variety of careers. We offer a Bachelor of Arts in History, which is a flexible major that allows you to experiment, explore and take control of your education. Studying history trains you to think clearly, to interpret evidence and to confront complex issues in informed ways. Our program gives you the opportunity to study state power, ethnic and religious conflict, sexual oppression, racial hierarchies, and wealth and war in the fields of American, European, Asian, African, Latin American, and Middle Eastern history. This program provides students with an excellent preparation for law school, graduate work, teaching, and a variety of private and public service positions.

The history major is linked to graduate programs within Pace University, such as the Pre-Law curriculum and the Master of Public Administration. We are also closely connected to the BA in Latin American Studies program (New York City campus) and the BA in Global Asia Studies (New York City campus), and are affiliated with the Global Asia Institute at Pace.

PROFESSIONAL PREPARATION

We offer a wide range of programs within our department, and whether you are interested in a minor in Classical/Medieval Studies, internships in museums or in public affairs, or a career in higher education teaching, you will find scholarly or utilitarian programs that will enhance your educational experience. Studying history provides students with an excellent preparation for law school, graduate work, teaching, and a variety of private and public service positions.

For more information, contact:

Ronald Frank, PhD
Chair, Department of History
rfrank2@pace.edu

Daniel Greenberg, PhD
Director, Latin American Studies
dgreenberg2@pace.edu