

CENTER FOR URBAN HEALTH AND EDUCATION RESEARCH AT PACE UNIVERSITY (CUHER)

Participate in Research

Researchers at CUHER conduct studies on health, social determinants of health, healthcare, and health education. Our studies investigate how people, health, and healthcare interact to find ways to improve our healthcare system.

Our current studies are listed here. Contact us at CUHER@Pace.edu to find out more about our work.

The Essentials Study – What We Can Learn from the Experience of Essential Healthcare Workers and First Responders

Principal Investigators: June Chisholm, PhD and Christopher-John Godfrey PhD

We invite essential healthcare workers and first responders who have been active during the COVID-19 pandemic to participate in a brief interview about their experiences during the pandemic. The study aims to understand how working during the pandemic may have influenced healthcare workers' health, mental health, and their social and professional relationships. All participation is confidential, and the interview takes about 30 minutes to complete. You must be 18 years or older to participate. Your participation is voluntary. You will not be paid for your participation. At the end of this survey, you will be invited to answer some additional questions about your COVID-19-related experiences.

Enrolling: Healthcare workers 18 years of age and older

IRB Number: 1663398

To participate: Contact the Essentials Study team at CUHER@pace.edu or cgodfrey@pace.edu